

THE BENEFITS OF TEAMWORK AND

WHY YOU SHOULD TRAIN WITH TABLETOP ROLE PLAYING GAMES.

Why train with a tabletop game?

That is a brilliant question! Unlike most activities, tabletop games are incredibly inclusive and accessible to people of any age, sex, or even with health conditions/impairments. This is important as everyone should have the opportunity to grow and develop.

What are the benefits of training with a tabletop game?

This method of team building is universal and can be tailored to any group; the game consists of a one-hour session that puts the team into a fantasy setting that they must adventure through and succeed. There are no rules and the players will be able to devise incredible ways to overcome problems, encouraging group efforts and communication. The setting and 'roleplaying' will allow players to escape from their identity and act as a solid unit while controlling their character.

What is a tabletop game?

TTRPGs (Tabletop Role Playing Games) are designed for any and all; we use 5th edition Dungeons & Dragons, the most popular TTRPG in the world. The game is in a fantasy setting like Lord of the Rings and other famous franchises.

How do they play?

We supply everything you will need, including the venue; the group will have a character generated and the whole party will consist of four heroes, they will control these characters and venture through one of our scenarios to accomplish their quest. For groups four or more, we will divide into four groups and the teams will work together to develop ideas and methods to utilise their characters' strengths and support each other's weaknesses.
